In 1879, Union College arose out of a need – a need for education. For the citizens of Barbourville, then a town of 450 citizens and three brick buildings, establishing an institution of higher learning for their children was imperative. They believed education was the path to leadership and a brighter future. With that same visionary spirit, Union continues to be a springboard for great minds, for young leaders, and for all those with a commitment to education—thanks to many who continue to invest in the mission.

Recognition Levels

Vision Maker Societies

Daniel Stevenson Society • $1,000,000 or more (lifetime member)
Credited with rescuing Union from almost certain closing, Daniel Stevenson of Versailles, Ky., served as Union's president from 1888 to 1897. He fulfilled his dream of establishing a Methodist college in the area he considered in the greatest need of service. He was the first president after the college became affiliated with The Methodist Episcopal Church.

Fanny Speed Society • $500,000 - $999,999*
Mrs. Fanny Speed of Louisville was Union's first great benefactress. Her interest in Dr. Stevenson's purchase of Union's property is evident through her gifts totaling over $60,000 during his administration. Following her death in 1902, Union received half of her estate, approximately $266,000. These funds helped to complete Speed Hall and rebuild both Stevenson Hall and the Administration Building (renamed Classroom Building and later Centennial Hall).

Abigail E. Weeks Society • $100,000 - $499,999*
Miss Abigail Weeks, a beloved head of the English department and librarian, served the college for 32 years. In the June 2, 1937, issue of the Orange and Black, the school paper commented regarding her service to Union by writing, "She gave to Union College her sacrificial loyalty, and fulfilled the sentiment of her own lines, written as a fitting close to the college Alma Mater, 'We will live for thee.'"
